Google

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my sincere interest in joining Google as a member of your IT team, despite the absence of any current job openings. My admiration for Google's groundbreaking contributions to the tech industry compels me to proactively reach out and express my eagerness to be a part of your organization.

I am particularly drawn to Google because of its commitment to innovation and its diverse and inclusive culture. I admire Google's mission to organize the world's information and make it universally accessible and useful, and I am eager to be a part of a team that is at the forefront of technological advancements.

I have recently completed my Bachelor's degree in Computer Science from University of Technology Nuremberg, where I gained a solid foundation in various programming languages and software development methodologies. Throughout my academic journey, I actively engaged in projects that involved developing web applications, mobile apps, and software solutions.

During my internship at Dell Technologies, I had the opportunity to work closely with a team of software engineers on various projects, including developing scalable web applications, optimizing code for performance, and implementing new features based on user feedback.

In addition to my technical skills, I am a quick learner with a strong problem-solving ability and a keen attention to detail. I am also adept at adapting to new technologies and methodologies, which I believe are essential qualities for success in the ever-evolving field of software engineering.

I am eager to contribute to Google's mission of organizing the world's information and making it universally accessible and useful.

Sincerely,

Joseph Mejia
